Support Your Local Farmer

Who's Your Farmer?

Peaked Moon Farm has several locations along the Connecticut River centered on the Farm Stand in Piermont. The land, along with our sustainable farming practices, produces a bountiful harvest of vegetables and supports our beef and dairy cows, laying hens and broilers, pigs, and lambs.

In addition to our Farm Stand in Piermont, we have a Farm Store & Bakery in Lincoln, Isaac B's restaurant in Orford (opening soon), and can be found weekly during the summer at the Farmers Market in Hanover.

What is CSA?

Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) programs were introduced in the United States in 1986. Now there are more than 12,000 programs offering members a seasonal supply of ultra-fresh, local farm products and a community-building connection with their farmer.

Members of a CSA program agree to provide direct, up-front support to a local farmer, while the farmer agrees to provide a sufficient quantity and quality of food to meet the needs and expectations of members. Members share in a portion of the risks of farming, including poor harvests due to unfavorable weather or pests.
